Closet Fashion Consultant

A clothes hanger is a container for our clothing. Why can't it also be a container for information?

Imagine if, when you chose a piece of clothing from your closet, other hangers lit up to show you matching clothes? Much like pollen clinging to your shirt, bits of information could stick to your clothing as you went about your day.

Your closet could serve as a network to hold that information. Later, that piece of clothing could be used to remember information about that day.

Dana Spiegel
spiegel@media.mit.edu
MAS.834 - Tangible Interfaces